The Race

Once upon a time, there was a rabbit and a tortoise. Both of them decided to race against each other. They made the arrangements and planned a race track.

Many animals gathered to watch the race. As the race began, the rabbit sped off and was way ahead of the tortoise in no time. He decided to take a short rest in between. "I will get up in a while and then finish the race", he thought.

Meanwhile, the tortoise, slowly and steadily, made his way across the race track. He went on and did not stop along the way. He passed by the rabbit, dozing under the bush. He did not stop and finally reached the end of the track. In a short while, the rabbit woke up and dashed to the finishing line, but what did he see? The tortoise had WON!
